When employees are allowed or assigned to work for UCF or any of UCF's direct support organizations from a jurisdiction other than Florida, such as another state or another country, the possibility exists that additional taxes, expenses, and liabilities may be incurred as a result of the work being performed in a different legal jurisdiction. These liabilities could include: payroll taxes to the non-Florida jurisdiction, unemployment compensation or workers compensation obligations in the different jurisdiction, additional employee benefit or insurance requirements, registration fees, etc. The University is unable, without substantial additional research costs, to provide definitive predictions on these potentialities, as each foreign and non-Florida jurisdiction has different rules and different enforcement mechanisms. By agreeing to the employment arrangement outside of Florida, I acknowledge that the employing department will be responsible for any and all additional taxes, expenses, or liabilities that might be charged to UCF as a result of such arrangement.
